

SAYS BLUEBEARD MOVED TO KILL

BERKELEY, May 6.—Neuroses, impulses, or homicidal impulses, is the form of mental disease with which Walter Andrew Watson, "Bluebeard" of Los Angeles, is suffering, in the opinion of Chief of Police August Vollmer of Berkeley, well known as a criminologist.

"Watson is neither sane nor insane, neither responsible nor irresponsible," declares Chief Vollmer, from his study of the case. "He belongs to that middle class of criminals who have no control of their emotions and actions. In my opinion, it would be as foolish to hang him as to hang a baby, but it would be equally foolish to allow him his freedom."

Speaking before nearly two hundred business men at the dinner of the Men's League of the First Congregational church in Oakland Tuesday evening, David P. Barrows, president of the University of California, said that Germany, despite the peace treaty, is steadily building up an army so that a year from now, when the allies attempt to force her to comply with the terms of the treaty, she can defy them.

"Who then," asked Barrows, will supply the army with which to force Germany to comply with the terms? The whole matter should be looked into with the sole purpose of arriving at something that is just and practicable."

No Doctor for Child, Jury Convicts Father

NEWARK, N. J., May 6.—Andrew Walker, a Christian Scientist, was found guilty of manslaughter by a jury in the court of common pleas for failing to provide medical treatment for his nine-year-old daughter, Dorothy, who died a year ago of diphtheria. The girl had been provided with Christian Science treatment.

The jury made a strong recommendation for clemency in returning its verdict. The same day the jury returned a verdict of not guilty against the mother, charged with a similar offense, because under the law she was not to be recognized as "the head of the family" and responsible for the care of her children.

Andrew Walker announced at the appeal would be taken.

WOMEN PLEDGED TO OLD CLOTHES

Six months is the period which Oakland club women have allowed themselves in which it will be absolutely fashionable to wear their old clothes and mend their old boots. A resolution carrying the pledge met with a storm of oratory yesterday, in which proponents made pleas that manufacturers and merchants needed to catch up with production and appliances. The pledge, however, was made. The movement was initiated by Mrs. A. E. Glaser. Mrs. Charles Taylor was elected president of the club to succeed Mrs. Theresa Wilson. Other officers elected were: Vice presidents, Mrs. A. B. Glaser, Mrs. A. T. MacDonald, Mrs. F. H. Greene, recording secretary, Mrs. J. C. Chestnut, financial secretary, Mrs. W. H. Kelley, corresponding, Mrs. George Samuel, assistant secretary, Mrs. H. E. Wharton, treasurer, Mrs. E. S. Pen-

FEARS HUSBAND SLAIN, ROBBED

Fearing that her husband, Henry Wilson, 31, 518 Center street, has met with foul play, Mrs. Louise Wilson appealed to the police today to aid in the search for him. She has not seen him since Monday night.

Mrs. Wilson told the police that her husband went to the office of the Standard Oil Company in San Francisco to draw a large sum of money that was due him and failed to return home. According to Mrs. Wilson, her husband has never remained away at night from home before since his marriage. He is described as being of medium height and weight with light hair and blue eyes, and well dressed. San Francisco police and the departments of neighboring cities have been asked to join the search.

Honest Advertising

THIS is a topic we all hear now-a-days because so many people are inclined to exaggerate. Yet has any physician told you that we claimed unreasonable remedial properties for Fletcher's Castoria? Just ask them. We won't answer it ourselves, we know what the answer will be. That it has all the virtues to-day that was claimed for it in its early days, is to be found in its increased use, the recommendation by prominent physicians, and our assurance that its standard will be maintained.

Imitations are to be found in some stores and only because of the Castoria that Mr. Fletcher created. But it is not the genuine Castoria that Mr. Fletcher honestly advertised, honestly placed before the public, and from which he honestly expects to receive his reward.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Wm. A. Fletcher

Wife Drops Divorce Suit; Couple Make Up

The divorce action filed a week ago by Mrs. Grace L. Finn against Arthur W. Finn, really salesman, was dismissed today. This is said to be a token of reconciliation and that the couple, who separated only the day before the suit was filed, will resume their domestic life at their home, 884 Colby street. Finn today refused to state whether or not this was the case, saying he was not in a position to discuss the matter. Mrs. Finn charged her husband with cruelty.

First $1000 Raised in Salvation Army Drive

Colonel J. K. Ritter, who is in charge of the Salvation Army drive here, announced that the first $1000 in the $60,000 campaign has been raised, although the drive will not open until next Monday. The funds are to be used in the erection of a hospital and rescue home in Oakland. Soldiers and sailors were the chief contributors this week.

Burglar Flees House When Owner Returns

J. O. Ward, 2118 Fifty-fifth avenue, returned home late last night with his wife and found the house brilliantly illuminated from cellar to garage.

Ward summoned a neighbor and together they started to make an investigation. As they stepped on the stairs of the Veranda the lights in the lower part of the house were suddenly switched off and the rear door was heard to slam.

The men ran around the house in an effort to intercept the burglar, but he escaped. Nothing of value was taken.

Ward's spouse, was assigned by the company to duty at the Chinese city, Mrs. Rehn, when she bade him bon voyage a few months ago, told her Oakland friends that she intended to learn the steamship game and be with her husband no matter where he went, work or take a holiday. She had made good and now goes to be the Orient as one of the company's representatives in the social life of the foreign colony at Shanghai.

Later in the same month the Congress changed the statute of 1870 to provide that in the request for a register of eligibles to be appointed to the office, the appointing officials shall not specify sex unless it is a physical barrier to the proper performance of the duties of the office.

The existence of a serious discrimination in the matter of appointments to the office of postmaster is indicated by the second part of the report. No remedy has yet been offered by the government. During the past year, the number of letters almost

JOHNSON'S VICTORY AT HOME.

California's vote in the presidential primary yesterday spoke in unmistakable terms the preference of the people of this State for Senator Hiram Johnson for the Republican nomination over the only candidate who made a contest against him. The senator's opponent, Mr. Herbert Hoover, a distinguished American and a Californian by legal residence, made the strongest fight possible on behalf of any candidate.

Yet Senator Johnson received approximately two-thirds of the vote cast, or a two-to-one vote. The balloting was the heaviest ever recorded in a primary election, there being cast about 600,000 votes out of a total registration of 1,100,000. A large Democratic vote was polled on the Republican ticket, it being possible under the primary law for Democrats to vote in the Republican contest. A large percentage of the Democrats of this state are original Johnson's supporters, but Mr. Hoover's managers made the pre-election claim that the Democrats would vote for Hoover and vigorous efforts were made to get out the Democratic vote. In just so far as the claim of the Hoover managers in this respect is correct does the total recorded vote fall short of indicating the real strength of Senator Johnson among Republican electors.

Alameda County rolled up a Johnson majority of 26,571, second in the State only to San Francisco's majority of 31,550. Oakland voted in favor of Johnson by over 2 to 1. Mr. Hoover has carried Ventura and Kings counties with Los Angeles county still in doubt. In no other county is there any question as to the endorsement of Senator Johnson for the Republican nomination for the Presidency. The large vote cast for Mr. Hoover, however, about 200,000, is not to be considered scornfully. It is highly complimentary.

The effect of Senator Johnson's land-slide victory in his own State will be greatly to raise his standing as a candidate in other States and before the national convention. Californians have endorsed his candidacy in unequivocal terms. Whatever may be the difference of opinion entertained as to some of his views on international questions, the people of this State are for him for President. This is the message sent to the voters of the nation by the largest vote ever cast for a candidate for any office in a State primary.

Opponents of Senator Johnson had hoped that he would poll a small vote at home and thus provoke the question as to his authority to ask other States to endorse his candidacy. But that hope has been utterly crushed by overwhelming victory. All the serious questions as to Senator Johnson being a duly accredited candidate for the Presidency have been swept away. The handsome votes he has polled in the primaries in Michigan, Nebraska, Montana, Indiana and other States have been given increased value by the judgment of his own State.

CORRECTING AN OMISSION.

Field Marshal Earl Haig of Petersburg, the commander in chief of the British army, seems to have been made a victim for his verbal sins of omission. Because in certain speeches he delivered in England after the war he failed to mention, favorably or otherwise, the American soldier, he has been accused of harboring an ill opinion of the doughboy and of expressing the American view.

That is the explanation Haig has for the impression that has prevailed, an impression which he has, somewhat belatedly, sought to correct. It yielded to no one in my great admiration of the great American armies that fought side by side with us in the world war. Haig told an interesting story the other day, and elaborated his phrase with many full-size words of an Asiatic appearance.

The honest opinion of Field Marshal Haig is of course, of some concern to Americans. He was one of the fighting figures of the war and in a position to give weighty judgments. When Haig failed to give credit to the men of the color who were the backbone of the American forces, it was felt, however, that the man who was brave in battlefield took the easier and more politic course in his home-land addresses and sought popular favor by confining his words of praise to British channels. It is gratifying that his sense of fair play, and of honesty, has caused him to speak the words he so long withheld.

TEACHERS A FIRST REQUISITE.

There are seventy measures pending in Congress which deal in some way or other with the subject of public education. There are the military and naval bills which contain clauses providing for special instruction of the youth of the country; the bill sponsored by the National Education Association, which proposes the creation of a federal department of education, and various other measures looking toward extending federal aid to the cause of public instruction.

One measure which has progressed further than all the others, with the possible exception of the army bills, is the Kenyon bill, which deals with the subject of Americanization, that is, the teaching of aliens and illiterates. As it passed the Senate, this bill appropriates $6,500,000 to be distributed among the several States, and with the exception of the great reduction in the appropriation, it adheres fairly closely to the scheme advocated by Hon. Franklin K. Lane when he was Secretary of the Interior.

It is proposed to appropriate the federal appropriation to the States on the basis of the illiterate population of each State as related to the total illiterate population. But no State shall benefit from the federal fund unless it appropriates a like amount for the same purpose. Any person eligible to the benefits of the act must be sixteen years of age or over.

The Kenyon bill therefore is a device to reach that portion of the uneducated which at present is not touched by the State machinery of education. It contemplates attack upon a peculiar and special problem, the native and foreign born adults whose ignorance of the English language and the fundamental truths concerning American life and government make it difficult if not impossible for them to become good American citizens.

The purposes of the Kenyon bill and other measures for lending effectiveness to the program of Americanization are all to be commended. The appropriation of the Kenyon bill is so small that no large results may be expected, but after the scheme has once been put in operation it may be possible to obtain federal assistance commensurate with the needs. But there is another more important matter in connection with Americanization and the traditional forms of public education which must be attended to at the same time. It is the question of teachers.

The latest investigation by the federal Commissioner of Education disclosed that 18,279 schools were closed for lack of teachers and that there were 41,000 schools being taught by teachers who were "below standard but taken because of the emergency." Commenting upon this deplorable condition, the World's Work for March, has this to say:

"The largest shortages were found in Kentucky, Texas, Virginia, Georgia, North Carolina, and Iowa, whereas Alabama, Tennessee, Minnesota, Illinois, New York, and South Carolina were among the states in which sub-standard teachers were altogether too numerous. A fact equally disquieting is that 150 normal schools report that they have 11,000 fewer students—young men and women, that is, preparing themselves for teachers—than they had a year ago. Another interesting detail is that teaching is becoming more and more a woman's occupation: in 1890 one teacher in three was a man, in 1900 one in five, and in 1918 one in six. The reason why the teaching profession is falling into neglect is plain: in 1916 the average teacher's salary in this country was $563; since then an insistent public agitation has increased it only to $625. The teacher in the elementary grades gets an average salary of $606, and the high school teacher a man or woman who, in most cases, has spent four years at college—gets an average of $1,021. In the rural sections remuneration of these amounts would be regarded as princely, for in many small localities salaries are found as low as $150 or $200 per annum."

It is obvious that the first requirement of efficient public education is efficient teachers. This applies to Americanization work as it does to all other lines of instruction. And in Americanization, for the trained teacher and worker is no less desirable than in other classes for making and training citizens. Without waiting for appropriations from the federal government, which may never come in adequate amounts, the States must take steps to prevent further deterioration of the teaching system and to restore something of its former adequacy and efficiency, as measured by the new problems confronted.

Perhaps when the time came for Mars to signal the earth, when the great wireless sender was tested and found to be without flaw, and when the auxiliary flashers of sun-rays and releasers of smoke clouds were announced in order, the king or the president or whoever it is who rules in Mars, selected the fairest maiden in the land as the one who should send the greeting. Then, with all the Martians standing on tiptoe and breathless in anticipation of the interplanetary event, and with this world of ours straining its millions of ears, natural and steel, the maiden put her finger to the key, her lips to the mouthpiece, or her hand on the lever. Perhaps, and it is not beyond belief, the fairest in Mars puckered her brow, got distractedly at the several Martian moons reflecting their glories in the geometrical canals, and let the golden moment pass. And when they pressed onward for explanation perhaps she said, "I could not think of a thing to say."

NOTES and COMMENT

Senator Watson of Indiana may be unduly concerned. He has introduced a bill making it a fine of $500 and a year's imprisonment to interfere with women in voting. The thing would be to do something to induce the thirty-sixth state to concur in the nineteenth amendment. In states where women already have the right to vote they are not molested. The interference comes in those states that are standing out against equal suffrage.

How they get the Stockton Record man's goat: "The thing that gets a man is to be browsing along at 15 miles an hour to conform with the law or, rather, to be able to look the speed cop in the face, and have that 'fellow' staring around a corner on his motor bike at about 40 miles an hour. It looks to a plain man like class legislation."

Senator Lodge is to make the keynote speech at the Republican convention. Some genuine Republican expressions may be looked for when the distinguished senator from Massachusetts opens the ball.

News from King City, via the Register: "Bob Ross, who is operating a star rig good for 1000 feet on the Currell place, Oasis, about five miles southwest of town, is already 'certain sure' that his theory regarding that antelope on Paso Robles to Pine Canyon is correct."

The Woodland Democrat proclaims a regular poster. "A cow has no head for business. Why do the best cattle keep on growing chuck steak when there is no demand for it?"

One of those items that fill out the column is to the effect that silk once brought its weight in gold. Such a commercial condition is nearer now than it has been in years, and applies to other articles and commodities than silk. For a time it looked as though spuds might get into the category, and sugar is still looming that way.

The Marysville Appeal explains how it is. "The trouble about 'owning your own home' seems to be that when rents are low, there isn't much use in buying, and when rents are high, you can't afford to buy."

We have ceased to be startled at any phase of overall news originating in this country, but we may open to a little surprise that the crazy has manifested itself in the British House of Commons. It is to be concluded that the fad has great vitality.

San Francisco can't stand an unseemliness. The police have opened war on "moon-beam dancing," which Chief White says "appear to be done to very low lights and any kind of music."

This is new. The American Manufacturer Company of New York has given 250 teachers and supervisors of the particular section in which the company's industries are located $100 each. The largess was bestowed because of the faithful attention given the children of the company's employees. This is a spirit that ought to draw employers and employees closer together.

An apparently belated disclosure is that there is a bill of $14,000,000 from the telephone and telegraph companies for war service. Postmaster General Burleson blandly asks Congress to pay it, and volubly explains how it occurs, and that it isn't much, anyhow.

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS

Presto's Rawlin Day this year was so good that we were moved to offer a suggestion to make it still better. That is that the representation of the various foreign colonies be not so thoroughly Americanized. To be sure, we are proud, as our immigrant peoples are, of the completeness of their Americanization. That ought to be symbolized. Perhaps there should be a float with representatives of all nations on it, distinguished by their flags, but otherwise conspicuously American and all exactly alike—Presto Republican.

We rejoice that William Jennings Bryan is to be a delegate to the Democratic convention in San Francisco. Without Bryan the convention had just as well close shop. He is the greatest figure in American politics today. What he says has weight. Things that are facts today. Some words will try to introduce a wet plank, and we rejoice that Bryan will be there to put his hat over them.—Brentwood News.

THE LE CONTE LECTURES.

The extension division of the University of California has arranged a series of lectures in Yosemite National park, to be given in June and July. They are the Le Conte memorial lectures, instituted in honor of a naturalist and geologist, Joseph Le Conte, who for 39 years was a member of the faculty of the university.

Joseph Le Conte appreciated perhaps more than any other teacher in his day the importance of the Yosemite valley to students of the natural sciences and to lovers of nature, and on several occasions gave lectures in the valley to groups of his students and friends. In the summer of 1919 the lectures were given during a three-weeks' period. The talks were given at points in the valley which best exemplified the subjects discussed. Willis P. Jepson, professor of botany at the university, talked on the flowers and trees, Dr. William Frederick Blair, literary executor of John Muir, followed with a fascinating study of Muir, who delighted in the high Sierra which he called "The Range of Light." The geology of the valley was discussed by Francis Emile Mathews of the United States Geological Survey. A. L. Kroeber, professor of anthropology in the university, lectured on Indian folk-lore. This year's lectures, and their subjects, are as follows: Dr. Joseph Grinnell, "The Vertebrate Animals of the Yosemite"; Dr. C. Hart Merriam, "The Indian Tribes Formerly in the Yosemite"; Dr. A. C. Lawson, "The Geological History of the Sierra Nevada"; Dr. J. C. Merriam, "Philosophy of Joseph Le Conte"; Christian Science Monitor.

NEWSPRINT SHORTAGE.

The most disturbing phase of the matter is that ten years ago when the development of our industry stopped, the United States was practically self-sufficient in newsprint production. Today we are dependent on other countries for the equivalent of two-thirds of the pulp wood, pulp or newsprint which goes into American newspapers. Our newsprint industry is concentrated largely in New England, New York and the lake states. The predicted life of the industry in the northeast states is alarmingly short. I am told that 60 per cent of the pulp and paper concerns in New York have no supplies of their own and that less than five have enough timber land for future continuous operation. Independence in newsprint manufacture can be accomplished only by two measures—the development of the industry in the Pacific Northwest and in Alaska, where we have large quantities of suitable newsprint woods and the large scale growing of timber in New England and the lake states.—Secretary of Agriculture Edwin S. Meredith before the annual convention of the American Pulp and Paper Association.

A COOLIDGE TEXT FOR TEXAS.

"We need more of the office desk and less of the show window in politics."

There are the words of Governor Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts, but what of that? Life is a big enough American to merit the purposeful quotation of his public utterances. In any other State, and the foregoing epigram is likeable and respectable anywhere for its truth and its "punch." So, the Express suggests its use as a text by Texas Democrats who are actively opposing Mr. Bailey's designs upon the governorship and the delegation to San Francisco. Those who are answering his anti-administration harangues may employ it to point a moral and adorn a tale.

HEALTH and HAPPINESS

Why Very Cold Water May Be the Cause of Gastritis

By DR. LEONARD K. HIRSHBERG
A. B., M. A., M. D.
(Johns Hopkins University)

Acute gastritis is usually brought by the presence of some other ailment or is the result of a complication of diseases. Scarcely a serious instance of fever and skin affections are frequently accompanied by gastritis.

The early symptoms of acute gastritis is the experience of a burning sensation in the stomach. This is accompanied by nausea and frequent vomiting. In the early stages of the ailment breath movements are rapid and shallow and the pulse is hard and short.

The tongue does not change color markedly, as a sign of the approach of this ailment, but it is sometimes dry and is tinged at the tip and edges with a bright color of scarlet. The victim may even suffer in the early stages of gastritis from intense thirst and hiccup.

The approach of gastritis shows no mercy to facial beauty. It soon leaves its marks of a haggard, worn-out look, which indicates intense suffering. The eyes, too, show signs of pain. Even at its beginning the ailment removes all traces of youth and youthful vitality.

The patient cannot eat when the mucus of the stomach becomes inflamed, for not even the mildest liquids can be retained by this digestive bag. A digested white fluid is passed after the patient has eaten. This becomes mixed with mucus and sometimes is streaked with blood as it passes its way out through the mouth.

As the ailment progresses the fluid which comes up through the mouth becomes a dark-colored granular substance which resembles what is known in yellow fever as black vomit.

Acute inflammation of the mucous membrane of the stomach is fortunately a rare occurrence. One cause of this ailment was the habitual use of alcoholic drinks, especially when taken without food.

Alcoholic drinks were not the only liquids, however, which assisted in the deterioration of the walls of the stomach. Plain cold water taken in copious measure, especially if cold in the summer, is a favorite producer of gastritis. Emotions raised to an intense pitch are apt to bring on the ailment. Emotions which irritate or burn are almost sure to bring on suffering in this area when taken internally.

Gastritis is very suddenly developed if poisons are the cause for its excitement. Baneful fluids are sometimes left about the house by careless persons, and it is not infrequent for some one to make a mistake and swallow the Lyons liquid. In such an event the person complains of a severe burning sensation in the throat and the lining of the mouth. This usually shows the action of some poisonous fluid.

A person who has been thus unfortunate should be immediately rushed to a physician who can then administer the proper antidote. After the physician has allayed the inflammation which is characteristic of the disease the use of a tea made of peach tree leaves will be found serviceable.

Your physician should be in constant attendance until the dangerous stage of the disease has been overcome.

PARSON'S WIFE SUES FOR $5000

Damages in the sum of $5000 are asked by Mrs. Jennie S. Pierce, wife of Rev. John Harwood Pierce, the "nursing parson," who hurriedly left for Honolulu after a woman was issued charging him with attempting to bribe a sanitary inspector from Mrs. Martha Heet on the ground of alleged false arrest.

According to Attorney Howard K. Jones, the woman, who is a sister of Mrs. Heet, who had been housekeeper for the Pierces at their "wedding bureau" and home on Fifth street, near Broadway, for wages alleged to be due and unpaid, following which an attachment was filed on the place, when Mrs. Heet, installed as keeper, when Mrs. Pierce appeared and insisted on remaining in her own home, Mrs. Heet ordered her out and finally, it is claimed, caused her arrest on a charge of disturbing the peace.

The charge was dismissed in the police court several days later. Following the dismissal the woman is said to have settled the attachment proceedings in suit of the household belongings to Mrs. Heet.

LADY ASTOR'S SLURRER HOOTED

LONDON, May 6.—The bitter opposition to Lady Astor which she has met in her journey into parliament, has been gathering strength, finding expression in indecent jests and offensive innuendoes, was dragged brutally to the surface yesterday by Horatio Bottomley, who devoted four columns to a bitter attack in his widely read weekly, "John Bull."

When Horatio Bottomley entered the House of Commons this afternoon the majority of members showed him that his attack on the only woman "M. P." far from making the hit which he had counted on, was being resented. There was a hostile hush as he strode through the aisle toward his seat. When he arose to speak hoars from all parts of the house out short, "With regard to her speech," said Astor entered the chamber. Loud cheers greeted her, virtually the whole house joining in the ovation. Bottomley rose, Lady Astor spoke "with regard to her speech," and avers she is guilty of "rank hypocrisy" because she obtained a V. O. on Feb. 2, 1919, "by arrangement between her and her husband."

GRANDFATHER, 35, IS DIVORCED FOR FLIRTING

A though 35 years of age, with eight children and 18 grandchildren, Charles Swartz was still a gay flirt who was dissatisfied with her and sought the company of younger women, entertaining one in their home at 3464 Sheffield avenue on May 25, 1919, according to the testimony of Mrs. Eusebia Swartz who obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce granted by Judge A. F. St. Sure.

When she consorted with Swartz, he would swear at her, Mrs. Swartz claims, and on other occasions locked himself in a room or accused her of unfaithfulness and with attempts to poison him. She was given the Sheffield avenue home and $5000 cash in bank in lieu of alimony.

China Is Planning Changes in Tariff

PEKING, May 6.—The Chinese government has notified certain governments having trade relations with China that it intends to abolish the "titan" or international tax imposed on goods in transit between provinces. To compensate for the loss of this revenue, which is the financial mainstay of the provincial governments, it will be necessary to increase import duties on foreign goods at ports of entry, the government has announced. It has requested the powers to take part in a revision of the Chinese tariff.

Industrial Unrest Growing in India

DELHI, May 6.—Industrial unrest is increasing and the trade union spirit is growing in Bombay, according to a statement received by the authorities here. The Viceroy's council has been notified that 36 strikes have taken place recently in India and that 28 of these were in Bombay.

Fannie Hurst Forecasts Marital Freedom; Writer Sees Eclipse of Dependent Wife

Exponent of Trial Marriage Says Economic Advance Widens Love Choice.

The admission just made by Fannie Hurst, well known writer and advocate of woman's rights, that she has been the wife of Jacques S. Danielson, New York pianist and composer, for five years, reveals that she has been practicing what she wrote. She has long been contending that when a woman marries she should not lose the expression of self.

In making the announcement of her marriage to Danielson, she told of the matrimonial agreement she and her husband made and which she claims has worked for success and will be continued. They maintain separate homes and studios, never meet except by appointment and do not inquire into the way the other spends his or her time while absent. During their five years of married life, she states, they have averaged two breakfasts a week together. Her husband makes appointments for dinner with her just as any of her other friends.

When they were married they agreed that if at the end of one year the experiment had proved unhappy they would merely drift apart and forget the trial. The venture, she says, has proved so successful that they will continue the plan.

Some time ago Mrs. Danielson, who still calls herself Miss Hurst, expressed her views of married life in the following conversation, which also clearly concerned her experiment in the realm of matrimony:

By Jane Dixon.

"Men are not nearly so complex as women. They are simple creatures, for the most part, and marry for purely elemental reasons—love, a home, children."

"FANNIE HURST."

Is there any writer of today who gets closer to the human heart, who understands the funny and the serious, the cross-currents that go to make up individual humanity and holds them up to the public gaze like this breezy young woman from the banks of the Mississippi?

Fannie Hurst has a way of sitting in with the family at the table with the red cloth and the chipped china, and gathering all there is of snatches of letters at the board.

She can go from thence directly to the high ceilinged, crystal chambered drawing room and come out with equal quantity of life's sweet and bitter tucked away in her notebook.

And when it comes to transferring these real life observations and experiences to paper there is no contemporary writer who can outphotograph Fannie Hurst.

All this that you may know the declaration of the St. Louis girl with the magic in her men is worthy of the most serious consideration.

"Men think very simply and clearly on the subject of marriage," says Miss Hurst. They either want or they do not want."

WOMEN MORE COMPLEX

"Women are vastly more complex in their reasons for committing matrimony. They are actuated by a hundred things, the insurance of their future being one of the most frequent."

"Who is going to take care of them when the home nest-egg is exhausted? Some men take father's place as a provider. Any number of women, pondering this problem, grow panicky and grab the first reasonable offer of marriage that happens along for fear it will be their last. THE man is a minor consideration. It is getting married that counts—insurance bought and paid for."

"That," sighed the speaker, "is the way things stood during the Dark Ages of Matrimony, from which we are only now beginning to find deliverance."

"Thank heaven, women have discovered they have a couple of feet to stand on and two hands to work with and a brain for their own thought and a SPINE. They have found they can buy their own insurance policy on their future. It means a revolution of the entire marriage market. It means better husbands, better wives, better children."

"For marriage is no longer going to be a blind surrender to the inevitable. It is going to be selective. A woman will marry a man if she wants, not the man she feels she must take. A man will marry a comrade-wife, not a propagation plant."

LIKE OVERGROWN BOY

Fannie Hurst sat very straight and tense in the great Spanish chair where she had flung herself. Her dark eyes danced with the earnestness she put into her subject. A deeper crimson dyed her plump cheeks, already spanked to flame by the sharp winter wind. She is such a healthy, good-natured vital sort.

PAUL OPPERMAN, Mgr.

FANNIE HURST, who gives her unusual views on marriage.—Copyright Ruth Colby, New York.

This woman of unquestionable wit. She reminds one of nothing so much as an overgrown boy bent on getting all the fun out of life and succeeding admirably.

"I know we are all pretty well fed up on this subject of woman and her economic independence, but it is like the new toy 'Johnnie gets for Christmas.' He can't do anything for a while but play with it."

"Men do not like the subject so much. Why should they? As it is today they feel they are being deprived of something they cherished very dearly, the 'home' woman. What an absurdity! As if a woman could not be a model homemaker and an economic unit as well. I should hate to think I was incapable of holding down two jobs, neither of which need interfere with the other."

"Fortunately, it is not going to take real men long to discover the economically independent woman is the safest, the worst and the most admirable selection for purposes of matrimony."

"Independence of woman will be a good thing, but it is a good thing when it is based on something more than mere physical charm."

"The woman who has proven self-sufficient in the matter of earning a living will not waste. She has no time to nag. She understands the value of the dollar too well to run her husband into a debtor's court. She does not hang around his neck and speak of the value of her apartment as a life-line and kitchen and my own parsony in my own backyard."

He knows, if he marries me, carpet slippers seven nights a week is all I need. I never want to see a 'roof' or a music show or a cabaret again to the day I die. He knows I'll fit into a home like a goldfish into its bowl. He made a mistake with me, and it's going to square itself."

In such of her works as "Just Around the Corner" and "Beverly Hills" Miss Hurst gives additional and convincing reasons for committing matrimony.

Readers must answer the question according to the light in their own heads and hearts.

My hostess laughed. She was the big breezy girl again, with smart tam-o'-shanter pulled rakishly forward, hands thrust into the pockets of her jersey sport suit, tan walking shoes caught in the crumpled of the Spanish chair and the bright orange of an artist's tie voicing the wearer's love of color and life.

If I confess an entirely different attitude toward marriage since I have discovered I am an actual economic unit in this world. When I found I could earn money, that my thoughts, my opinions were worth something, had a real marketable value, I began to place an entirely new valuation on myself. Every woman does the same."

And you prefer being an economic unit to being a wife?" I asked.

"WANTS TO BE BOTH."

"No, indeed," energetically. "Why not be both?"

"Regular men no longer ask their wives to wear Chinese shoes. They recognize the value placed on her by the world and are just as jealous of it as she is herself. They acknowledge she may have a brain which is the equal even the superior of their own, and they do not require her to squander it on recipes for bread pudding.

"I hope I shall marry some day. It is one of the experiences in life no woman can afford to miss. To my way of thinking it is the sort of experience which cannot go entirely wrong, because you win if you lose. When I do pledge my life to the other I shall not, at the same time, pledge myself to wipe out my own individuality. Such practice is part of the Dark Ages. It absurd to say, because I become a wife I must cease to be the woman I have made myself. My individuality as a human being, my work, whatever I have of creative ability, my part in the economic plan of the universe, belong to me. It is not just that I surrender it—even to my husband, nor that I submerge it in my home. If I am wise enough and womanly enough, my home shall be the better for my independence and individuality."

Miss Hurst believes this egress from what she terms the Dark Ages of Matrimony is slow but sure.

"We must not judge the rest of the country by this great progressive city," she warned. "Out in small towns, and even the small cities, men who believe it is a sort of slap at their capabilities as earners to have their womenfolk work outside the home, stay at home and bake chocolate cakes and make dollies."

"The war has helped. Economically it has thrust women ahead a century."

NEW MARRIAGE CODE

"Give them time, these bush-league husbands and potential husbands. By and by they will toss aside the ancient code and adopt the new one. A few generations hence such an anomaly as an absolutely dependent woman will be practically extinct. Speed the time, then, of the economic unit as well as a pulsing and palpitant package of human emotions inclosed between the covers of a volume called 'Humor'."

Miss Hurst has given us a cleverly reasoned reason why at least one type of man marries. The story is "Oats for the Woman," and the woman in it speaks thus of her approaching marriage to a man in St. Louis:

"He's just a plain, good man. A good home in a good town where life ain't like a red-eyed devil ready to hit in deep between the shoulders. I know why he says he can see his wife in me. He knows I'm the kind was cut out for that kind of a life—home and kitchen and my own parsony in my own backyard."

He knows, if he marries me, carpet slippers seven nights a week is all I need. I never want to see a 'roof' or a music show or a cabaret again to the day I die. He knows I'll fit into a home like a goldfish into its bowl. He made a mistake with me, and it's going to square itself."

PLEA THAT GIRL JILTED HIM FAILS

His explanation that he had been jilted by a San Mateo girl and was driven desperate, as an excuse for the theft of an automobile which he drove to San Francisco, failed to impress Judge James C. Quinn when James L. Venneman, a deserter from the Navy, was arraigned in court today. He was given an indefinite sentence in San Quentin of from one to five years for grand larceny.

To support his contention that he had been jilted, Venneman produced a letter from the girl in which she declared that she "knew Venneman better but had been compelled by her mother to marry 'George' because she thought that he was a better provider. The girl asked Venneman to excuse the spots and smudges on the letter, declaring that they were tear stains."

OVERSEAS MAN ABSOLVED, FREE; ARREST SCORED

"I do not understand why a man, and especially an overseas soldier, should be subjected to a search of his pockets in a public place," said Police Judge Mortimer Smith this morning as he dismissed the case against Benjamin Underberger, who was arrested April 21 on a petty larceny charge by Inspector Joseph Robinson.

Underberger, who saw action in the front lines in France, was arrested on the charge of stealing a $20 bill from A. Alexander, 734 Fifth street. Underberger lives in a rooming house owned by Alexander.

He developed at the hearing this morning that although the overseas man was ill in bed on the day the theft is alleged to have occurred, he was subsequently arrested, searched and compelled to strip off all his clothes in order that even the flimsy might be explored.

Prosecuting Attorney Fred Donahue at the conclusion of the testimony said in his opinion Underberger had been unjustly arrested and recommended dismissal.

PROBATION GRANTED

Three men charged with violation of the fish and game laws were granted six months probation this morning by Acting Police Judge Herbert B. Wise. They were arrested April 15 by Deputy Fish and Game Commissioner A. Mack on a charge of catching fish in the bay that were under the minimum legal size.

The men were Lucas Bells, William Anderson and Albert Butler.

BURGLARY CHARGE REDUCED

After dragging through the police courts for her months, a charge of burglary against Frank Sylvester, a foreman in a local factory, was this morning reduced to petty larceny by Acting Police Judge Herbert B. Wise. He pleaded guilty and judgment was suspended for six months.

A couple of days ago Sloss suffered an attack of heart trouble but rallied, and yesterday morning he appeared to be well but later he died.

Sloss was 62 years old, a son of Louis Sloss, one of the founders of the Alaska Commercial company, which made fortunes out of the Alaskan seal furs during the '90s, and Sloss was also active in the affairs of the company, and later he was elected president of the Northern Commercial company, which was the head of the time of his death. He was also a director of many other companies, was a regent of Stanford university and a member of the Bohemian Club, Argonaut and Commercial clubs.

Woman, Unbalanced, Walks in Nightdress

Clad only in a nightgown, a woman with a large roll of currency in her hand started the pedestrians on San Pablo avenue this morning as she walked down the street offering the money indiscriminately to everyone she met.

The woman was intercepted at Lakeside and San Pablo avenue by the police.

At the emergency hospital it was learned that the woman was Mrs. C. E. Sanders, 64, Twenty-third street, and that she had been a patient of the hospital for some time. She had been discharged from her home this morning while temporarily insane.

Civil Service Board Asked to Raise Pay

RECORDER TAKES IN $615.60; NEW HIGH MARK SET

The biggest day for business in the history of the county recorder's office was that of yesterday, according to County Recorder C. W. Bacon, when 281 documents were recorded and $615.60 in fees paid.

The biggest previous day in the history of the office was in November, 1914, when 217 documents were presented and $520 paid in fees. The record was broken by a few more, which in itself was far above the ordinary one, was that it was the last day before the revenue stamp act went into effect and real estate buyers and sellers hurried to get their documents recorded before having to pay the extra amount.

PARSON'S WIFE SUES FOR $5000

Damages in the sum of $5000 are asked by Mrs. Jennie R. Pierce, wife of Rev. John Howard Pierce, the "merry parson," who hurriedly left for Honolulu after a warrant was issued charging him with attempting to bribe a sanitary inspector from Mrs. Martha Reed on the ground of alleged false arrest.

According to Attorney Howard K. James, the trouble arose when Mrs. Reed, who had been housekeeper for the Pierces at their "wedding bureau" and home on Fifth street near Broadway, for wages alleged to be due and unpaid, following which an attachment was filed on the place, with Mrs. Reed installed as keeper. When Mrs. Pierce appeared and insisted on retaining in her own home, Mrs. Reed ordered her out and finally it is claimed, caused her arrest on a charge of disturbing the peace.

The charge was dismissed in the police court several days later. Following the dismissal, the women are said to have settled the attachment proceedings by a sale of the household belongings to Mrs. Reed.

LADY ASTOR'S SLURRER HOOTED

LONDON, May 5.—The bitter opposition to Lady Astor which, since her entry into parliament, has been gathering strength, finding expression in industry and offensive innuendoes, was dragged brutally to the surface yesterday by Horatio Bottomley, who devoted four columns to a bitter attack in his column "road weekly," "John Bull."

When Horatio Bottomley entered the House of Commons this afternoon the majority of members showed him that his attack on the only woman "M. P." far from making the hit which he had counted on, was being deeply resented. There was a hostile hush as he strode through the chamber, finding expression in industry and offensive innuendoes, was dragged brutally to the surface yesterday by Horatio Bottomley, who devoted four columns to a bitter attack in his column "road weekly," "John Bull."

GRANDFATHER, 85, IS DIVORCED FOR FLIRTING

Although 85 years of age, with eight children and 18 grandchildren, Marks Swartz was still a gay Lothario who was dissatisfied with his wife and sought the company of younger women, entertaining one in their home at 3404 Sheffield avenue on May 25, 1919, according to the testimony of Mrs. Rosalie Swartz who obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce granted by Judge A. P. St. Sure.

When she remonstrated with Swartz he would swear at her. Mrs. Swartz claims, and on other occasions looked him in a room or accused her of unfaithfulness and with attempts to poison him. She declared her husband was previously married to another woman for 25 years and then divorced her because he wanted someone younger. Mrs. Swartz was given the Sheffield avenue home and $5000 cash in bank in lieu of alimony.

Fannie Hurst Forecasts Marital Freedom; Writer Sees Eclipse of Dependent Wife

Exponent of Trial Marriage
Says Economic Advance
Widens Love Choice.

The admission just made by Fannie Hurst, well known writer and advocate of woman's rights, that she has been the wife of Jacques S. Danielson, New York pianist and composer, for five years, reveals that she has been practicing what she wrote. She has long been contending that when a woman marries she should not lose the expression of self.

In making the announcement of her marriage to Danielson, she told of the matrimonial agreement she and her husband made and which she claims has worked for success and will be continued. They maintain separate homes and studios; never meet except by appointment and do not inquire into the way the other spends his or her time while absent. During their five years of married life, she states, they have averaged two breakfasts a week together. Her husband makes appointments for dinner with her just as any of her other friends.

When they were married they agreed that if at the end of one year the experiment had proved unhappy they would merely drift apart and forget the trial. The venture, she says, has proved so successful that they will continue the plan.

Some time ago Mrs. Danielson, who still calls herself Miss Hurst, expressed her views of married life in the following conversation, which also cleverly concealed her experiment in the realm of matrimony:

By Jane Dixon.

"Men are not nearly so complex as women. They are simple creatures for the most part, and marry for purely elemental reasons—love, a home, children."

"FANNIE HURST."

Is there any writer of today who goes closer to the human heart, who pounces upon the funny little kinks and idiosyncrasies that go to make up individual human beings and holds them up to the public gaze like this breezy young woman from the banks of the Mississippi?

Fannie Hurst has a way of sitting in with the family at the table with the red cloth and the chipped china, and gathering all there is of smiles or tears at the board.

She can go from thence directly to the high, busy, crystal chandeliered drawing room and come out with an equal quantity of life's sweet and bitter tucked away in her notebook.

And when it comes to transferring these real life observations and experiences to paper there is no contemporary writer who can outpace her.

All this that you may know the declaration of the St. Louis girl with the magic in her pen is worthy of the most serious consideration.

"Men think money simply and clearly on the subject of marriage," says Miss Hurst. "They either want or they do not want."

WOMEN MORE COMPLEX

"Women are vastly more complex in their reasons for committing matrimony. They are actuated by a variety of reasons—insurance of their future being one of the most frequent."

"Who is going to take care of them when the home nest-egg is hatched? Some male must take father's place as a provider. Any number of young people seeing this problem, grow panicky and grab the first reasonable offer of marriage that happens along for fear it will be their last. The man is a minor consideration. It is getting married that counts—insurance bought and paid for."

"That," sighed the speaker, "is the way things stood during the Dark Ages of Matrimony from which we are only now beginning to find deliverance."

"Thank heaven, women have discovered they have a couple of feet to stand on and two hands to work with and a brain for their own thoughts and a SPINE. They have found they can buy their own insurance policy on their future. It means a revolution of the entire marriage market. It means better husbands, better wives, better children."

"For marriage is no longer going to be a blind surrender to the inevitable. It is going to be selective. A woman will marry the man she wants, not the man she feels she must take. A man will marry a comrade-wife, not a propagation plant."

LIKE OVERGROWN BOY

Fannie Hurst sat very straight and proud in the great Spanish chair where she had flung herself. Her dark eyes danced with the earnestness she put into her subject. A deeper crimson dyed her plump cheeks, ready to be spunked by the sharp winter wind. She is such a healthy, good-natured vital sort.

Wives to wear Chinese shoes. They recognize the value placed on her by the world and are just as jealous of it as she is herself. They acquiesce in the fact that she is the equal, even the superior of their own, and they do not require her to surrender it on recipes for bread pudding.

"I hope I shall marry some day. It is one of the experiences in life no woman can afford to miss. To my way of thinking it is the sort of experience which cannot go entirely wrong, because you win if you lose. When I do pledge my life to that who believe it a sort of step at the same time, I pledge myself to give out my own individuality. Such practice is part of the Dark Ages. It is absurd to say, because I become a wife I must cease to be a woman. I have made myself. My individuality as a human being, my work, whatever I have of creative ability, my part in the economic plan of the universe, belong to me. It is not just that I surrender it—even to my husband, nor that I submerge it in my home. If I am wise enough and womanly enough, my home shall be the better for my independence and individuality."

Miss Hurst believes this egress from what she terms the Dark Ages of matrimony is slow but sure. "We must not judge the rest of the country by this great progressive city," she warned. "Out in small towns, and even the small cities, many who believe it a sort of step at the same time, I pledge myself to give out my own individuality. Such practice is part of the Dark Ages. It is absurd to say, because I become a wife I must cease to be a woman. I have made myself. My individuality as a human being, my work, whatever I have of creative ability, my part in the economic plan of the universe, belong to me. It is not just that I surrender it—even to my husband, nor that I submerge it in my home. If I am wise enough and womanly enough, my home shall be the better for my independence and individuality."

"The war has helped. Economically it has thrust women ahead a century."

NEW MARRIAGE CODE

"Give them time. These husbands have been potential husbands. By and by they will toss aside the ancient code and adopt the new set of reasons why men marry. A few generations ago even a dependent woman will be practically extinct. Speed the time."

In one of her more recent short stories which go to make up a pulsing and pulsant package of human emotions enclosed between the covers of a volume called "Humoresque," Miss Hurst has given us a cleverly etched reason why at least one type of man marries. The story is "Oats for the Woman," and the woman in it speaks thus of her approaching marriage to a man in St. Louis.

"He's just a plain, good man I never in my life dreamed of having. A good name in a good town where life isn't like a red-eyed devil ready to bite in deep between the shoulders. I know why he says he can see his wife in me. He knows I'm the kind was cut out for that kind of a life—home and kitchen and my little parcels in my own backyard. He knows, if he marries me, carpet slippers seven nights a week is my schedule. I never want to see a 'roof' or a nude show or a cabaret again to the day I die. He knows I'll fit into a home like a goldfish into his bowl. Life made a mistake with me, and it's going to square itself."

"Around the Corner" and "Every Soul Hath Its Song" Miss Hurst gives additional and convincing reasons for committing matrimony. And for not committing matrimony.

Readers must answer the question according to the light in their own heads and hearts.

PLEA THAT GIRL JILTED HIM FAILS

His explanation that he had been jilted by a San Mateo girl and was driven desperate, as an excuse for the theft of an automobile which he drove to Salinas, failed to secure sympathy from Judge James C. Quinn when James L. Veneman, a dealer from the Navy, was arraigned in court today. He was given an indefinite sentence in San Quentin of from one to five years for grand larceny.

To support his contention that he had been jilted, Veneman produced a letter from the girl in which she declared that she had Veneman better but had been compelled by her mother to marry "George" because she thought that he was a better man. The girl asked Veneman to excuse the spots and smudges on the letter, declaring that they were her stains.

The report of Probation Officer Leonard Compton which recommended a trial of probation showed that Veneman had a record of four previous convictions and three paroles in New York state for many minor offenses.

OVERSEAS MAN ABSOLVED, FREE; ARREST SCORED

"I do not understand why a man, and especially an overseas soldier, should be subjected to arrest and trial upon such flimsy evidence," said Police Judge Mortimer Smith this morning as he dismissed the case against Benjamin Underberger, who was arrested April 21 on a petty larceny charge by Inspector Joseph Robinson.

Underberger, who saw action in the front lines in France, was arrested on the charge of stealing a $20 bill from A. Alexander, 784 Tenth street. Underberger lives in a rooming house owned by Alexander.

In developed at the hearing this morning that although the overseas man was ill in bed on the day the theft is alleged to have occurred, he was subsequently arrested, searched and compelled to strip off all his clothes in order that even the lining might be examined.

Prosecuting Attorney Fred Donahue at the conclusion of the testimony said in his opinion Underberger had been unjustly arrested and recommended dismissal.

China Is Planning Changes in Tariff

PEKING, May 5.—The Chinese government has notified certain governments having trade relations with China that it intends to abolish the "likin" or international tax imposed on goods in transit between provinces. To compensate for the loss of this revenue, which is the financial mainstay of the provincial governments, it will be necessary to increase import duties on foreign goods at ports of entry, the government has announced. It has requested the powers to take part in a revision of the Chinese tariff.

OTTO BERG DISPROVES THEORY "THEY CAN'T COME BACK"

SAN FRANCISCO SEALS DISPOSE OF PROMISING YOUNGSTERS AND RETAIN THE OLD TIMERS

BAT ORTEGA AND JOE FERRO TOSSED FROM RING FOR STAILING

Frank Barrieau Defeats Frankie Denny, But Only Gets a Draw for His Efforts.

By BOB SHAND

Otto Berg disproved the old theory that "they can't come back" at the Auditorium last night when he decisively defeated Jack McClelland. The blonde middleweight defeated McClelland further than Battling Ortega did the previous week and he was given one of the best "hands" ever tendered a boxer at the local home of quarrels. Berg beat McClelland to everything and had his man on the verge of a knockout on several occasions. In the second round Otto pulled a pair of long left hooks that caught Jack flush on the point of the chin and the San Francisco boy was wobbling when the gong sounded. Berg forced the fight in every round and his hair was hardly mussed at the finish. A body punch in the first put one of Otto's ribs out of commission but he was game enough to keep right on fighting and lick his man in workmanlike fashion.

Berg has been wasting a lot of time watching the title four-rounders in action during the past six years. He might as well have been in there collecting a few medals for himself as on the form he displayed last night he can more than hold his own with the top-notchers in the current middleweight ranks. McClelland is a tough nut to beat, even Ortega having his troubles defeating him. The blonde middleweight was last night without extending himself, but simply knew too much for the man from the Mission and made him look foolish at times.

Ortega and Ferro Are Disqualified

Battling Ortega made a big mistake when he tried to punch Joe Ferro to make a good showing with him. The Battler was warned twice to get in and do his best, but when he continued to stall the pair of them were tossed from the ring. Ortega claimed that he hurt his right thumb in the first round but last night he had his right hand when the men shook hands before the fight. Instead of tearing it as he usually does Ortega permitted Ferro to hit him with his right hand when he did strike back. His punches were feeble in the extreme. At the end of the first round the Battler was warned that the party was all off and he was to get in and do his best. In the second round he was again warned and then the gate. Ferro evidently believes in recuperation as just before the fight was suspended he had the Battler's chin wide open and instead of letting a couple of well-meaning ones go he playfully tapped him on the top of the head.

Frankie Denny Has Another Birthday

Frank Barrieau gave Frankie Denny an artistic boxing lesson last night when he defeated him by a decision. Denny proved just a little tougher than the local boys. He fought down in the first round and had Frankie looking around the ring for some reason. In the last round Denny became desperate and landed a few heavy blows but Barrieau was too much for him and the referee stopped the fight. Denny is a good fighter but he is not a champion. He is a good fighter but he is not a champion. He is a good fighter but he is not a champion.

Tommy Cello Wins From Eddie Gorman

Tommy Cello was awarded a decision over Eddie Gorman, a local fighter, last night. Cello was a tall, rangy fellow, but has no punch. He scratched little Gorman on the chin a dozen times but the only effect was to make Gorman's face red. Gorman's only chance was to knock Cello out, but he failed to do so. Cello's victory was a surprise to many of the local fans.

PERCY AND FERGIE—Not a Very Auspicious Opening for Their Summer Campaign.

Tom Seaton Is Bumped From Hill by Angels, While Bill Pertica Tames the Seals.

By EDDIE MURPHY.

It was a grand old dream that Charley Graham, manager of the San Francisco Seals, had the fans around the bay to believe that they were going to see a lot of local youngsters striving to win the bunting for the transbay club this season. A week before the season opened, Charley seemed to be having an awful time deciding what youngsters he would keep on the club, because all of them looked like they were ripe enough to stay in the league this season. The season is a month old today and now we find that only one of those youngsters remains with the Seals and that that lad is slated to be sent elsewhere unless his work for the Seals improves. The lone youngster to be held on the club is Jimmy O'Connell, the young outfielder who was almost spoiled by having stories published about Manager Mitchell of the Chicago Cubs offering the Seals $10,000 for him.

Joe Denny, who looked to be a better hitter and catcher than Eddie Anderson, was shipped to the Wichita Falls club after he suffered an injury to his finger a few days before the season opened. At first Joe did not like the idea of being shipped away from the Seals, but he was given a chance to show what he could do, but Graham packed all that trouble up in his trunk and shipped him to the Wichita Falls club. Eddie Anderson was then allowed to do all the catching while Sam Agnew was out of the lineup with an injured hand.

Anderson was a hard little worker. He was a first string catcher and his reward now is a job with the Tacoma Tigers. He was a first string catcher and his reward now is a job with the Tacoma Tigers. He was a first string catcher and his reward now is a job with the Tacoma Tigers.

TRIPLE TIE IN VALLEY LEAGUE

Gossip for Baseball Fans
GILROY CLUB LEADS IN MISSION

Lemoore, Hanford and Tulare are tied for first place in the Southern Division of the San Joaquin Valley league. All three teams won their games last Sunday. The Hanford bunch hung a 13-0 defeat on Dinuba to drop the latter from the four-team tie for first place. In the Mission league race, the Gilroy team jumped into the lead by defeating Salinas before a crowd of more than 1500 at the Salinas diamond. While those leagues have furnished plenty of fodder for the fans, there is still a lot of chatting going on about the nineteen inning game at Stockton last Sunday between the Hollis and Best Tractors. Those two clubs will draw a big crowd to see them in the third game of their series at San Leandro next Sunday.

Bill Dickey, former Seal, was on the mound for Hanford and his teammates started him off with a two run lead in the first inning. They added a run in each of the next three. Salinas was hit hard and after the first inning the lead was 10-0. The final score was 13-0. The game was a good one for the fans and was well attended.
